Agency details

Agency number: 451
Start date: 1990
End date: 1992

Abolition: 23 March 1992 Council meeting (resolution CL92/16)

Administrative history note:
The School of Arts Education and Theory was one of the first three schools of the Faculty of the College of Fine Arts (COFA), when the faculty came into being on 1 January 1990 following the amalgamation of the City Art Institute with the University of New South Wales. The initial Head of School was Ian Howard.
On 4 February 1991 the school was renamed the School of Arts Education with its responsibilities listed as "art, history and theory, art education and arts management studies" (Council resolution 91/11).
On 23 March 1992 the school was disestablished and split into two new schools - Art Education and Art Theory (Council resolution CL92/16).
