End date:

Creation: 11 December 2000 Council meeting (resolution CL000/88)

Abolition:

Administrative history note: On 11 December 2000 Council created the School of Community Medicine, Health Services Management & Medical Education within the Faculty of Medicine effective from 1 January 2001, as a result of the disestablishment of the schools of Community Medicine, Health Services Management and Medical Education (resolution CL000/88). At the time it was noted that following advice from the Faculty of Medicine Board the name of the school would be revised and thus it seems to have taken some time before the merger was completed. On 25 February 2002 Council approved the change of name of the school to the School of Public Health and Community Medicine with effect from 26 February 2002 (resolution CL002/8d). The first head of school was Professor Anthony Zwi. In 2008 the head of the School of Public Health and Community Medicine was Professor Raina MacIntyre.
